

The Main Menu of the screen, in this area the user can choose whether to play the given boards or make their own and play.

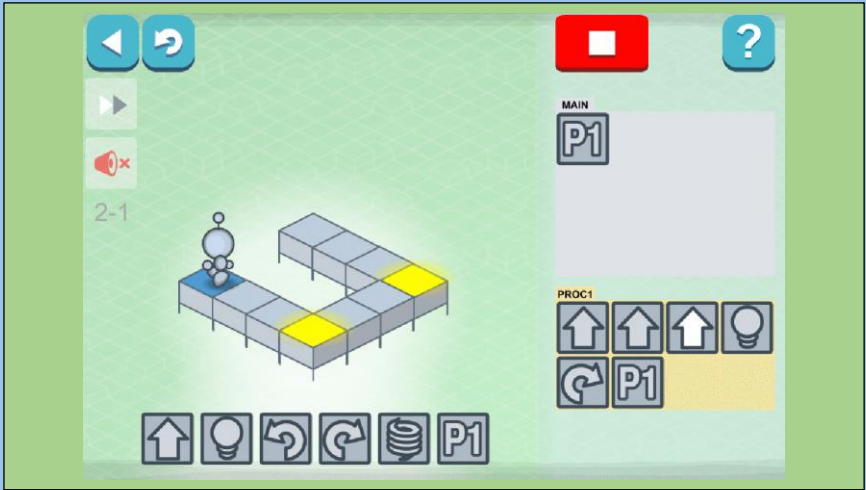

This will be the first level of many levels the user can play. It will probably have increasing difficulty.

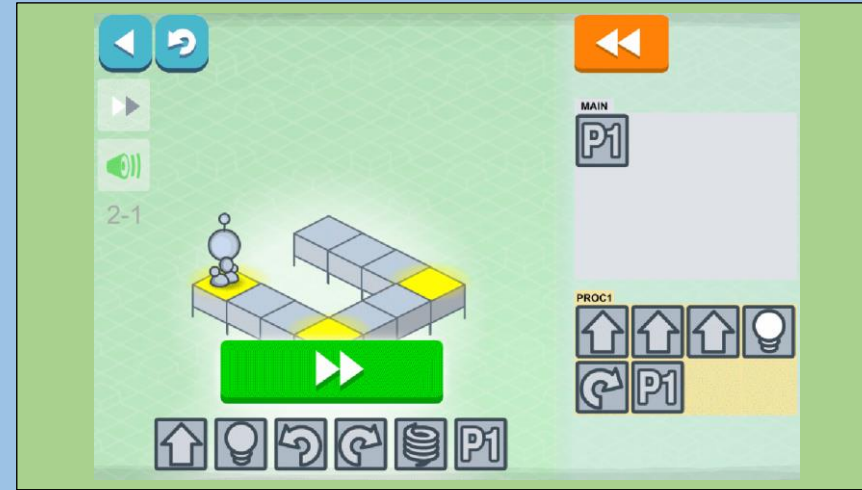

This will be a blank screen the user will see when they click on the level. The user then can click the commands they feel will solve the puzzle or the pattern

After selecting the commands, it will look like this. There is more than one answer usually to these boards. This answer was done recursively.

The user will click run on the solution they just wrote; the bot will follow the function.

If the solution or function passes or light all the blue squares, the user can move to the next level or go back to the main menu.
